Blair, who had been active in securing its establishment, was chosen as its first president. In the language of the charter, the college was founded to the end that the Church of Virginia may be furnished with a seminary of ministers of the Gospel, and that the youth may be piously educated in good letters and manners, and that Christian faith may be propagated among the western Indians to the glory of God. The founding of this college, though without influence upon literature during the First Colonial Period, supplied in the next century a number of men who became illustrious in the political and literary history of their country. 1 Tyler, History of American Literature, p. 89. 2 Campbell, History of Virginia, p. 273. New England. -- Thirteen years after the founding of Jamestown, the Mayflower, with one hundred and two colonists, landed at Plymouth. They were Puritans, who for the sake of conscience first exiled themselves in Holland; and there considering that their nationality would finally be lost among the hospitable Dutch, they heroically resolved to migrate to the New World. They recognized the difficulties of the undertaking; but, as one of their number tells us, it was replied that all great and honorable actions are accompanied with great difficulties, and must be both enterprised and overcome with answerable courages. Religion was a dominant factor in the character of the Puritans. In coming to America, they sought a refuge where, to use their own language, they...
