Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt: .buckboard, saying, Wall, to-morrer yuh won t need me, Mis James. Everything is goin on as fine as kin be, an you se know all about th seeds. Oh dear, Mr. Ames! cried Natalie, in distress, we will feel as if we are at sea without a rudder. The remark pleased the farmer, for he was proud of his experience and loved to have others admit it. So he said: Well, ef I git time I 160 might run in at noon when I drives to the store fer mail and house-goods. Please do! We will need you by that time, I am sure, replied Natalie. But the seeds and corn and other vegetable products were planted without further mistakes or delay. Each day saw the work advance and by the time the city school closed the garden was well on its way to producing edibles for that season. The tiny lettuce slips that Mr. Ames s brother had given Natalie were growing up fresh and green; the radishes showed three to four sturdy little leaves, evidence that tiny red balls were forming under the ground. The cabbages and cauliflowers began to present funny little button-like heads above the soil; and the seeds were showing slender little spears of green where the soft earth was cleft by their protruding points. The tomato vines and other plants started from slips that had been weeded out from the Ames s farms were doing well; so that Natalie felt a righteous pride in her garden. The garden was well on its way to producing edibles for that season. 161 A letter from Miss Mason came the last Friday of school:...
